III. Cloze Test (40%)

BAGHDAD, Iraq (CNN) -- The new commander of U.S. troops in Iraq has warned that military force alone will not be enough to quell the country's 26 insurgency.

Speaking publicly Thursday for the first time since taking charge in Baghdad last month, General David Petraeus said military action was necessary to improve security in Iraq 27 "not sufficient" to end violence altogether.

"There is no military 28 to a problem like that in Iraq, to the insurgency of Iraq," Petraeus told a press conference, adding that political negotiations were crucial to forging any lasting peace.

27. (A) therefore (B) however (C) and (D) but
28. (A) inclusion (B) decision (C) solution (D) petition

Petraeus said talks should include "some of those who have felt the new Iraq did not have a place for them," and said a key challenge facing Iraq's government was to identify "reconcilable" militant groups and 29 them inside the political process.

Petraeus took charge of the U.S.'s 140,000-strong force in Iraq last month. Since a successful invasion in 2003, 30 quickly overthrew Saddam Hussein's regime, U.S. forces have become bogged down by a combination of attacks by terrorist groups such as al Qaeda in Iraq and 31 bloody sectarian fighting between Sunni and Shiite Iraqis.

Often the same rules apply to all the kids in the family, but they're adjusted 32 age. Bedtime is a classic example -- everyone has a set time, but the older kids can stay up later than the younger ones. In Bush's house, the kids are forbidden to barge in on anyone who's using the bathroom " 33 there's blood involved." Her children understand and adhere to that rule. Now even her 5-year-old can wait 34 Mom is out of the bathroom. And the kids expect privacy for themselves, too.

32. (A) according to (B) according as (C) because of (D) on account of
33. (A) because (B) before (C) until (D) unless
34. (A) while (B) for (C) till (D) when

Sometimes, the best consequences of breaking the rules are the natural ones -- simply step back and watch them unfold. In Bush's house, you aren't 35 to go into siblings' rooms 36 they aren't there, or use their stuff without asking. If someone disregards the rule, "then she gets the brunt of her sibling's tirade. I'm not going to cover for them," Bush says.

You might try posting house rules so they're 37 to all in black and white. "Anytime you can take the parents' voice out of the mix, you do better and avoid power struggles," Gouze says. "Kids are less likely to push 38 rules that are on paper."

35. (A) opposed (B) supposed (C) required (D) requested
36. (A) when (B) where (C) why (D) how
37. (A) visible (B) liberal (C) capable (D) simple
38. (A) for (B) against (C) into (D) among

Older kids, who've come to realize that not all rules are written in stone, are 39 to lobby for changes. Hear them out: Learning how to negotiate is a valuable skill. Let them explain 40 they disagree; sometimes they'll convince you that a rule doesn't, in fact, 41 a whole lot of sense. "I encourage negotiation because it makes my kids 42 about the reason for the rules," says one mom in Virginia. "We have a 'no food can be taken upstairs' rule, but recently my daughter, who's nine, was having her friend sleep over, and she asked if they could eat upstairs if they spread towels on the floor. I said yes, since it addresses the problem that caused me to make the rule in the first place."

Of course, though, you don't want to go totally overboard on negotiation -- if a rule is set in stone, say so; don't be afraid to say "enough" at a certain point in the arguments against it.

39. (A) unlikely (B) possible (C) likely (D) impossible

"Well," said the Cowardly Lion, 43 a long breath of relief, "I see we are going to live a little while longer, and I am glad of it, for it must be a very uncomfortable thing not to be alive. Those creatures frightened me so badly that my heart is beating yet."

"Ah," said the Tin Woodman sadly, "I wish I 44 a heart to beat."

This adventure made the travelers more anxious than ever to get out of the forest, and they walked so fast that Dorothy became tired, and had to ride on the Lion's back. To their great joy the trees became thinner the farther they advanced, and in the afternoon they suddenly came upon a broad river, flowing swiftly just before them. On the other side of the water they could see the road of yellow brick running through a beautiful country, with green meadows 45 with bright flowers and all the road bordered with trees hanging full of delicious fruits. They were greatly pleased to see this delightful country before them.
